

StarKist limits tuna purchases

WASHINGTON (AP) — StarKist, the world's largest tuna canner, said yesterday it will no longer buy or sell tuna captured along with dolphins, winning strong praise from environmentalists who have long sought to protect dolphins from fishing nets.

Environmentalists and lawmakers said they hoped the move would save some of the estimated 100,000 dolphins that die annually in the huge driftnets used to catch schools of tuna.

"StarKist will not purchase any tuna caught in association with dolphins," said Anthony O'Reilly, president of the H.J. Heinz Co., which owns the StarKist Seafood Co.

"StarKist will sell only dolphin free tuna," he said at a news conference.

The change could cost consumers "a couple or more cents" per can, O'Reilly said, adding that he hoped sales would increase with the announcement and that some increased costs "will be compensated by increased volume."

StarKist has a 35 percent share of the U.S. tuna market and is the world's largest tuna canner.

Leslie Scheele of Greenpeace, which backs a worldwide boycott of tuna caught with driftnets, called the announcement "without a doubt one of the biggest steps that could be taken in order to preserve dolphins in the Eastern Tropical Pacific in probably the last 20-30 years."

Sen. Joseph Biden (D-Del.), who is sponsoring legislation to require canners to label tuna that is caught by the nets that ensnare dolphins, said the announcement made StarKist "not only the largest but the most enlightened" tuna canner.

"Now Charlie the Tuna has a reason to smile," said Rep. Barbara Boxer (D-Calif.), author of the Dolphin Protection Consumer Information Act of 1990 in a statement read by Biden.

Mid-afternoon workout

Ann Arbor's own Poupard brothers, Brett, age 8, and David, age 6, impress passerbys by singlehandedly propelling the Cube into motion yesterday in front of the Fleming Administration Building.

JENNIFER DUNEY/Daily

Security rises in Colombia after explosion

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Medellin's police increased checkpoints and patrols today after a car bomb planted by drug traffickers killed 16 people, including eight members of an elite anti-drug police unit, officials said.

The bomb, packing 220 pounds of dynamite, exploded Wednesday beside a crowded Medellin highway as a truck carrying 21 officers of the elite police unit passed by.

A police communique said at least 73 people, including the other 13 police officers in the truck and a three-year-old girl, were hurt. Several were in critical condition at local hospitals.

Ten vehicles and surrounding buildings were badly damaged.

National police declared a state of alert Wednesday, in fear of more bombing.

"We are expecting more attacks by the Medellin cartel, and for that reason we are increasing security measures in a drastic manner," a Medellin police officer said in a police interview. The spokesman did not give his name.

No one claims responsibility but cocaine traffickers have been killing police officers in the northern city of 2 million in retaliation for the government's anti-drug campaign.

In Bogota the news program, "TV Hoy" reported late Wednesday that senior police officers said the bombing was ordered by Medellin cocaine cartel leader Pablo Escobar. The program quoted police as saying that they had irrefutable evidence of Escobar's involvement.

The unit to which the police officers belonged is charged with battling terrorism by drug traffickers and leftist guerillas. The force has received training in Colombia from U.S. and British security personnel in recent months.

The explosion occurred as thousands of Colombians were arriving out of Medellin to begin Holy Week vacations. Radio reports said it left a seven foot deep hole in the highway.

In the port of Cartagena, President Virgilio Barco said he was "sorry to receive such bad news," the radio network RCN reported. Medellin police set up dozens of new roadblocks to check vehicles that might be carrying dynamite, the Medellin police spokesperson said.

'We are expecting more attacks by the Medellin cartel, and for that reason we are increasing security measures in a drastic manner'

— Medellin police

Police also increased vehicle checkpoints in Bogota, the capital, where one week ago police deactivated a truck bomb packing 1,000 pounds of dynamite.

In December, traffickers exploded a 1,100 truck bomb at security police headquarters in Bogota, killing 63 people.

Bomb attack spurs tension in India

SRINAGAR, India (AP) — The Moslem campaign for an independent Kashmir spread to Bombay Wednesday with a bomb attack that wounded 34 people and brought Indian relations with Pakistan to a new peak of anger.

United News of India said frontier guards shot and killed seven Kashmir militants who were trying to cross illegally into Pakistan, which borders the Kashmir valley.

Indian and Pakistan, which have in the past waged war over Kashmir, traded bitter words over the latest violence. Pakistani troops were put on high alert Wednesday after India's leaders talked of war.

The Indian news agency quoted unidentified officials as saying the militants were killed while trying to escape a dragnet spread across the valley by security forces.

Authorities were cracking down in a search for killers of three men abducted last week by Moslem separatists demanding the release of three failed colleagues. The bodies were found Tuesday in the far northern city of Srinagar, the hub of the secession drive. Jammu-Kashmir state officials said 64 people were arrested during the searches, but it was not known if they were connected with the killing of the hostages.

The bomb rocked a train near Malad station on the outskirts of Bombay, about 1,000 miles south of Srinagar on India's west coast. Holy Warriors of Kashmir telephoned reporters in Srinagar and claimed responsibility for the explosion.

The group was first heard of Tuesday when it claimed responsibility for bomb blasts that injured at least nine policemen in two new Delhi police stations.

In Srinagar on Wednesday, army troops in camouflaged battle dress cordoned off the area where the bodies were found and began house-to-house searches for the killers, witnesses said. A 24 hour curfew was in effect for the sixth straight day.

The killings of the hostages, who included a Vice Chancellor at Kashmir University, were a departure from the militants' previous practices. In the past, the militants only

'The dastardly murders... are the grossest violations of human rights, where innocent persons are being made victims of senseless, externally inspired and motivated violence'

— Aftab Seth
India Foreign Ministry

killed civilians accused of being police informers.

"The dastardly murders... are the grossest violations of human rights where innocent persons are being made victims of senseless, externally inspired and motivated violence," Foreign Ministry spokesman Aftab Seth told reporters Wednesday in New Delhi.

He said the events in Kashmir indicated "a sinister pattern of incitement to violence being orchestrated by so-called leaders of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir and by elements within Pakistan itself."

Retired 'U' psychology prof. passes away at 64

Ruth Littmann
Daily Staff Writer

Dr. James McConnell, a retired University psychology professor, died of a heart attack Monday at age 64.

Famous for his introductory college psychology textbook, "Understanding Human Behavior," McConnell performed unique experiments on flatworms which focused on learning and memory transfer.

"McConnell's work was very controversial because it was very complex and hard to duplicate," said Biological Psychology Professor William Stebbins. "But it's very interesting. If it ever is verified, it will be quite revolutionary."

McConnell retired in 1988 after working 32 years at the University.

"I just loved his class," said LSA senior Sheri Fink, referring to an honors introductory psychology class McConnell taught. "That class was the reason why I majored in psychology."

Jon Zimring, who graduated from the University last year and studied under McConnell, said, "McConnell had the reputation for being a maverick. He didn't want to do things according to the set method."

"He really believed in what he was teaching," Zimring added, referring to McConnell's commitment to behaviorism.

CORRECTIONS

LSA sophomore Ori Lev was quoted incorrectly in yesterday's Daily. Proposal C on the MSA spring ballot was passed because "preference" implies a choice. "One does not choose to be a homosexual, just as one does not choose to be a heterosexual," Lev said.

A story in Wednesday's Daily gave the wrong impression that the students who came in first place in the Rackham Student Government elections defeated their opponents who finished second. The second place finishers also won seats on RSG.

THE LIST

What's happening in Ann Arbor today

- FRIDAY
- UM Shorin-Ryu Karate-Do Club — beginners welcome 7:30-8:30 p.m. in the CCRB Martial Arts Room
  - UM Taekwondo Club — beginners welcome 6-8 p.m. in 1200 CCRB
  - Latino Student Happy Hour — a SALSA event at 5 p.m. in the U-Club
  - Hay Unios Tipos Abajo — Rafael Filipelli introduces the film in Spanish at 8 p.m. in the Natural Science Auditorium
  - "Educational Issues in Japan" — Teruhisa Horio speaks and meets with students from noon-1:30 p.m. in 4003 SEB
  - "The Changing Status of Asian Women" — a conference from 1-6 p.m. in the Henderson Room of the Michigan League
  - Baker Mandela Cultural Night — event takes place from 8 p.m.-midnight in the Union Kuenzel Room
  - "Women in Latin America: The Pedagogical Paradigm" — Beatriz Sarlo speaks at 2 p.m. in 1512 Rackham
- SATURDAY
- Siddha Meditation Intensive — a workshop at the Siddha Meditation Center of Ann Arbor; advance registration required
- SUNDAY
- Helping Hands for the Homeless — weekly meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Bursley McGraham-Sidewalk lounge
  - APO Service Fraternity — chapter meeting at 8 p.m. in the Union Anderson Room
  - Open Gaming Session — held by the Michigan Wargaming Club 1-7 p.m. in Room D on the 3rd floor of the Michigan League
  - Iranian Student Cultural Club — meeting with Persian movies from 2-4 p.m. and Persian language classes from 4-6 p.m. in 3050 Fricze Bldg.
  - UM Chess Team — meeting at 1 p.m. in the Michigan League
  - Siddha Meditation Intensive — a workshop at the Siddha Meditation Center of Ann Arbor; advance registration required

All items for the weekday list must be mailed or delivered to us at 420 Maynard at least three days before your upcoming event. There will be no previews of any kind, and all items for Weekend Magazine (Friday, Saturday, or Sunday) must be delivered the Friday before publication.

State DISCOUNT
309 S. State Street • 994-1262

STATE COUPON
WEEKEND SPECIAL
1.00 OFF
ANY CD IN STOCK
SALE ITEMS EXCLUDED
NO LIMIT VALID TILL 4/16/90

DON'T SEND YOUR WINTER CLOTHES HOME—STORE THEM FOR THE SUMMER!

GOLD BOND CLEANERS

332 Maynard
668-6335

THE BEST SUMMER OF YOUR LIFE BEGINS HERE

THE MICHIGAN DAILY

The Summer Daily and New Student Edition are looking for (quite) a few GOOD women and men to write for any or all of May through August. Find out what life at the Daily has in store for you.

MASS MEETING
Wednesday, April 18 at 7:00 p.m.
Second floor of the Student Publications Building.

BE THERE!!!

Announcing a conference on

"The Changing Status of Asian Women"

Friday April 13, 1990 from 1-6 pm
Henderson Room, third floor of the Michigan League

Schedule of Speakers:

- 1:00 Keynote Address: Saraswati Sunindyo—Department of Sociology, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Controlling the Body, Injecting the Stigma: The Politics of Prostitution in Java
- 2:15 Dina Siddiqi—Department of Anthropology, University of Michigan
Discipline and Protect: Women Garment Workers in Bangladesh
- 2:45 Wu Ga—Department of Anthropology, University of Michigan
The Shifting Meaning of Woman's Question in the Chinese Political Culture
- 3:15 Lu Zxy-Yann—School of Nursing, University of Michigan
Ill Fate: Illness and Women's Experience in Taiwan
- 3:45 Hitomi Tonomura—Department of History, University of Michigan
Title to be Announced
- 4:30 Concluding Panel Discussion
Gary Hawes, moderator—Department of Political Science, University of Michigan

Sponsored by the Asian Studies Student Association

Quality BAR

Summer is just around the corner and HOT times on The Rooftop are near... Be a part of it!

Now Interviewing For

- COOKS
- DOOR PERSONNEL
- BUS PEOPLE
- DISHWASHERS
- CASHIERS

Stop by... 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Monday thru Saturday
347 South Main, Downtown Ann Arbor

EOE
no phone calls please

U of M Men's Volleyball

VS.

Michigan State

Tonight—Friday, April 13

CCRB 7:00 pm